PROJECTS

Weather App

- In this project, I created an html page that allows a user to check the weather in the city they entered. If I entered Chicago, I would tell you the weather in Fahrenheit, the date, and the current weather condition.

Fitness Mobile App

- I created a fitness mobile app that personalizes workouts based on the user's information. Upon creating an account, the user must take a survey and answer questions based on the personal information. This information is stored in a database, which processes the information and returns custom workouts that best suit the user.
